in the formation. The quarterback has the ball and is making a short throw to the left side of the field. TIME—1:26 The defense is in its base defense, so the offense has only two running plays. As the quarterback throws the ball, the blitzing defensive lineman is sneaking up on him quickly. He is nearly to the line of scrimmage. In this situation, the quarterback is forced to make a quick throw. The pass is a little short and well outside of his intended receiver's throwing range, which forces him to make an awkward throwing motion. The defender breaks up the pass as the receiver is just reaching for the ball. 11–10 The line is in a blitz and the defense is playing zone coverage, so the offense has only two running plays. As the quarterback throws the ball, the defensive lineman is almost to the line of scrimmage. The quarterback is forced to make a quick throw. He drops it, but the defensive back is able to catch the ball. It was a very difficult play for the quarterback to make, and the receiver didn't even need to try. 11–11 The line is in a blitz and the defense is playing man coverage with the top tight end in the stack. The offense is in an empty formation with six receivers in the formation. The quarterback has the ball and is making a short throw to the middle of the field. As the quarterback throws the ball, the line is coming off the ball quickly. 82157476af
