Sep 01, 2008 - A few days ago the City of Aachen announced a fairly exciting new project: the City's data portal is about to get a makeover. The new portal is expected to come online in October 2008, and besides adding new data it will also include an intuitive user interface. The goal is to make it easier to access the data available in the portal, and to make it easier for city staff to upload, download, and maintain the information. The current portal allows for uploading of documents to a city department. There is also an option to download the document in PDF format. There are no search or filtering options. What's new about the upcoming portal is that it will also contain a number of databases. For instance, there will be one with credit card information, another with traffic information, and yet another with information on the city's land use planning. Another option allows users to create maps from GPS data – a really interesting feature. The new portal will also include a staff directory. The website is built using the open-source Content Management System (CMS) Drupal. All databases and the website are hosted by the City of Aachen's own information systems department. The development team is currently working on a detailed user manual. What is carti crestine pdf free download.
